Environmental protection is the answer

We don't have an unlimited supply of raw materials; climate change poses an urgent challenge too – this is why an ecological way of living and a sustainable economy are vital today.

There are numerous benefits:

- Lower consumption of energy and resources protects the climate and conserves the basic resources that sustain our lives.
- A reduction of toxic substances in the air, in soil, water and in our food allows us to live healthier lives and contributes to environmental protection.
- Living in greater harmony with nature conserves the diversity of plants and animals.
- Acting in a more ecological way ensures in many cases that we save money as well.
